President's Message

30 December 1991

One of the greatest truths of the century is the old adage Time Flies! The rush, the crowds, the hustle and bustle of Christmas is now over and I hope everyone had as much fun as I did with all my family together.

The big project for ACGS is our Cemetery Book. Our volunteers have worked diligently assembling material for publication. This is a big undertaking and promises to be a wonderful book that will serve as a valuable research tool. Fortunately, Sonny Brooks supplied us with an excellent map of Ashley County showing the road names and/or numbers. Bill Finch has located the cemeteries on the map, giving each a number on the map, which will be a part of the book. Dollie Pruitt, Bill Finch and I have worked together to write directions to reach each of the 83 cemeteries numbered on the map. I will now commence typing the directions and then the information will go to Faith Nowlin for printing and publication. Again, there will be a need for proofreaders. So, if there are members who will help, please let it be known by calling Faith or me.

Another asset to our research will be the surname reference card index to be placed in the Library soon. Since most of our members are researching Ashley County records, we feel this should encourage sharing of materials and eliminate duplication of research. Maybe an added bonus will be finding a new friend or relative with whom to share either by correspondence or in person. [Please take time to fill out the enclosed Surname Form and return it to us as soon as possible, so your surnames will be included in this project.]

With 1991 about to become history, let's face the new year with increased vigor and determination to work together and keep our organization one of the best genealogical societies in the country. We have had many compliments on our Kin Kollecting quarterly, which is a clear indication of hard work and dedication and our thanks to Rebecca Brown for continuing this task. We can pat ourselves on our backs for having multi-talented people in our society, and 1992 is the year for even more accomplishments through our volunteers. May we all have a happy and prosperous New Year!

Extra Methodist Church History in Berlin Community of Ashley County, Arkansas

Submitted by ACGS member, Patsy White. [Patsy has recently compiled a book on Extra Methodist Church. Some of the lists included in this 40 page book, are marriages, register of members, list of pastors and a current cemetery list.]

We do not know the exact date that EXTRA METHODIST CHURCH was organized. The earliest church register that we have was dated 1879, and contained 227 names on roll. It is known that at least one other register preceded this one, but it has been lost.

The first services were held in a crude building, probably a log structure, which was used as a saloon. This building was located on the east side of the highway across from where the present building is located. Later this building was moved across the road to the west side, by a team of oxen, owned by the father of John Calahan, who moved it. Mrs. Mattie Langford, born 1866, stated she remembered the building while it was on the east side of the road, and that they also used it as a school. She remembers when they moved it in 1876.

Later a frame building was built; just outside walls with no ceiling or inside walls. The pews were made of split logs with pegs for legs. It was later renovated, and ceiled inside, and used as a place of worship until it was torn down. In 1912-13 a new building (the present one) was erected just north of the old one. Those that we remember who helped erect the present building were: I. V. Holland; Caney Holland; P. H. Holland; and Alfred Farmer, who were all members of the church for the most part. Steven O. Sawyer also helped with the building.

The land for the church grounds and the cemetery was purchased from Abner W. Files, on November 15, 1873. Trustees for the church at that time were: William H. Smith; Reuben Hill; and Henry I. Sawyer, Sr. We have no records of the church earlier than 1879, but there were death dates recorded in the cemetery as early as 1855. The FARMERS, HOLLANDS, and PAHALS came from Tennessee, the MARTINS from Mississippi, and the KINNIARDS from Alabama from 1853 to 1900. William Kinnaird, grandfather of Fred and Wm Jack Kinnaird was buried here in 1855. Henry I. Sawyer, grandfather of Erma Moore and Launa Harrison, and a trustee who signed the deed to this land, was also buried here in 1882. The deed to Extra Methodist Church is recorded in Book U, page 26 in the Ashley County Courthouse in Hamburg, Arkansas.

From Y. W. Etheridge's HISTORY OF ASHLEY COUNTY, we find that Extra Methodist Church was first called Bethel Church in 1850. More than one family went to church there, in a coach with a negro slave driver, all dressed in white, sitting atop the coach in full charge.

In the 1879 register, there is a unique arrangement of names. The male names are listed in a group and the female names are listed in another group. It has been passed down that the seating arrangements in the church were separate as well.

Going into the ministry from Extra Methodist Church were Rev. C. H. Farmer (Carlie Houston), 1900-1984, son of John Franklin and Sophronia Alice Holland Farmer, and grandson of P. H. and Margaret Berry Holland, along with A. B. (Braden) Holland 1882-1959, the son of P. H. and Margaret E. Berry Holland, long time members of this church. A. B. Holland is buried in the cemetery, along with his wives and his parents.

Down through the years, some very devoted Church School Superintendents have served as leaders of this church. P. H. Holland who came to this community in 1906 from Benton County, Tennessee, served as Church School Superintendent for 14 years between 1913 and 1921. He deserves high praise, for his faithfulness. Mr. Pidgeon Holland was not a fluent speaker like his preacher son, A. B. Holland, or his grandson, C. H. Farmer, but he was always faithful in his attendance. The weather didn't get too cold or the water in the creek too high, for him to be in his place each Sunday morning, even though it often meant a four mile walk for an old man. His example of 14 years without missing a Sunday has been an inspiration to the church.

Among our faithful Church School Superintendents, we can not forget Mr. Iverson Holland, who came when he was not able to. When he got old he would push a chair in front of himself in order to walk to the church from his house up the road. Also Mr. Aura Farmer who served faithfully for many years is to be remembered. It seems when we get a good Superintendent, we tend to keep them for life. Others who have served faithfully have been Mr. Virgil Dew, who is always present, and his daughter after him, Mrs. Vanice Dew Jeffers who is now serving.

Many services have been held throughout the years for our dear departed members. It is only fitting for those who have served so faithfully throughout the years, to this church, that the final tribute be paid them by having their funeral service in this church they loved and served. The final service is interment in the adjoining cemetery by the church.

We have to recognize two people who have kept the church register in the last few years, and they are Mrs. Luna Barnes and Mrs. Mary Katherine Dew (Mrs. Virgil). Another person who helped in many ways was Miss Elizabeth Knight. We do not know who was responsible for these records before they took them, but we do know these people have done an excellent job of recording the events, gifts, memorials, and renovations to the church in the later years.

Since Extra Methodist Church has been the center of the community, activities have centered around it. It was a country school house in the community before consolidation to Hamburg Schools, and buses ran the Berlin Road for the first time.

In 1984, there are only 35 names on the Church Register. The attendance is small, but the same spirit of the great day of yesterday—yesteryear, is still floating around and in the hearts and lives of those who are left and carrying on in God's services.

Here is a list of names of most of the people who have lived and are living in the community of Extra: ABBIE, AKERS, ALEXANDER, BLAKE, BOON, BUNN, BRYANT, BRIDGES, CAIN, CALAHAN, COOLEY, CRAWFORD, DEW, FARMER, FARRAR, FOLD, FRANKLIN, GILLISPIE, HOYETT, HARRISON, HOLLAND, HOGAN, JEFFERS, JONES, KINNAIRD, KELLEY, KITCHEN, KING, KNIGHT, LANGFORD, MARTIN, MOORER, PAHAL, PANQUIN, POLLOCK, RIELS, McCHRISTY, SAWYER, SMITH, WEST, WOMBLE, WESTBROOK, HUNTER, to name a few.

We have only fourteen weddings recorded that were solemnized at the church, but feel sure that there were others not recorded in years past.

Extra Methodist Church has been a large, live, prosperous country church. Many families lived near and attended its services. The older ones of these families have died, and the younger generations, went out to seek employment elsewhere, as farming is no longer the chief means of occupation.

The church being located in an area in which there was no industry, our young people, after finishing high school, left. Some went to college, some to military service, some became teachers, some preachers, and some just to other areas to seek employment. Some have married and live and work in other towns and are making good citizens, due to their early learning and influence this church and community have had on their lives.

Extra Cemetery Records

Travel 1.6 miles south of the southeast corner of the Courthouse Square in Hamburg on Highway 425; take left turn onto gravel (this is called the Berlin Road) and go 12.7 miles following the straightest route. Extra Cemetery is adjacent to and on the right side of the road 3.5 miles past Mt. Zion Cemetery. This cemetery may also be located by following instructions to the Mt. Zion Cemetery.

Ancestry of Black Family of Union County, Arkansas

The following was submitted by Annie Laurie Spencer, El Dorado, Arkansas.

Robert Johnson Black, Arkansas pioneer, surveyor and one of the three commissioners who founded El Dorado, was born in South Carolina, May 20, 1800. He was the son of Samuel Black, born February 15, 1771, died February 22, 1828, and Isabella Johnson, born 1778, died 1861.

Both of Robert Johnson Black's grandfathers were killed in the American Revolution. Samuel Black's father was Robert Black, who was killed July 1, 1776, in battle. His mother, Eleanor Russell, daughter of William Russell, and Robert Black were married March 5, 1762. Their children were: (1) Robert Black, born Nov. 15, 1776, died on a trip to Alabama July 14, 1836, married Martha Keith and left no descendants; (2) William Black, born Feb. 5, 1769, died Aug. 14, 1836, married Viola Davis; (3) Samuel Black, the father of Robert Johnson Black; (4) Eleanor Black, born Nov. 28, 1773, died Oct. 22, 1830, married Adam Davis, February 1793; (5) James Black, born April 2, 1776, died Oct. 24, 1850, married Nancy Agnes Leslie; (6) Mary Black, who married Robert Davis is listed by some records as a child, but may not be. No dates are in the family records for her. It may be that Eleanor is Mary Eleanor.

Isabella Johnson Black, Robert Johnson Black's mother, was the daughter of Lt. Francis Johnson and Margaret Seawright Johnson. Lieutenant Johnson was killed in 1781. Both grandfathers of Robert Johnson Black served in South Carolina. Robert Black was with Francis Marion, and a sword was presented to the family by Congress with Robert Black's name engraved on it for his service and sacrifice. This sword came to Union County with the family and was stolen in 1941.

When Robert Johnson Black decided to come to Arkansas about 1836, he had experience in wagon-train traveling. His father, Samuel Black, led a wagon train from Pendleton District, South Carolina, to Wilcox County (or that part of Alabama that became Wilcox County later) in 1817. Samuel Black was active in affairs of the county and was county appraiser when he died, and had served as surveyor.

Robert Johnson Black married his cousin, Mary Black, daughter of Capt. Robert Black and his wife, Matilda Alexander Black. Capt. Black was the son of James Black, Revolutionary Soldier, and his wife, Elizabeth Rogers. James Black and Robert Black were brothers and sons of Samuel Black and Agnes Glenn. Matilda Alexander Black was the daughter of Capt. James Alexander and Elizabeth Reed Alexander of Mecklenburg County, North Carolina. Capt. Alexander served in the American Revolution. Thus both of Robert Johnson Black's grandfathers, killed in service in the American Revolution, and both of his wife's grandfathers were soldiers in the American Revolution.

Mary Black, born April 8, 1800, died Aug. 24, 1823, when her second child was born, was the only love of Robert Johnson Black, and even today old timers in the eastern end of Union County tell the story of the young man, a member of the Black Clan, who was heartbroken and led a wagon train to Arkansas. At the time of her death they were in Perry County, Alabama. Her mother, Matilda Alexander Black, rode horseback from Mecklenburg County, North Carolina, to Perry County, Alabama to be with her daughter when the baby was born, but when she arrived she found a premature baby and her daughter dead. With two babies, Oliver Perry Black, born Aug. 24, 1821, and Araminta Matilda Black, born Aug. 24, 1823, Robert Johnson Black moved back to his father's home in Wilcox County.

After his father's death in 1828, Robert Johnson Black was more restless than ever. His younger brother, William Russell Black had been to Arkansas to visit relatives and told glowing tales of the land, the game and the climate. Robert Johnson Black decided to organize a wagon train and go to Arkansas. Many families joined him and as the train moved along young men decided to join. The families that came with him were the Williams, the Frisbys, the Norrises, the Perrys, the Connors, the Gandys, the Rayfords, the Waltons, and a large number of relatives, including his mother, Isabella Johnson Black, his two brothers, Samuel Francis Black and William Russell Black, his two children, and his sisters, except Mary Black who married William Hutchinson Norris and stayed in Alabama but later moved to Brazil with the Confederates to form Little America there.

The wagon train reached Farmerville, Louisiana, and could go no farther because only animal trails penetrated the dense forest into Arkansas. They had to stop and spent a year in Farmerville, made a crop and became friends with the community. In the summer when the crops were laid by, Robert Johnson Black took his slaves and blazed out a road so the wagons could come into Union County, Arkansas. On the early maps made by the Army Engineers, this road is listed as Black's Road.

Robert Johnson Black immediately became involved in affairs of the county and in carving a civilization out of a wilderness. He settled near Jones Lake in the eastern end of Union County. In 1843 he met with John R. Hampton and John Reynolds was elected commissioner to select a new site for the county seat of Union County. In October 1843, Robert Johnson Black and John R. Hampton reported that they had selected the Southwest Quarter of Section 28, Township 17 South, Range 15 West, as the centrally located spot in the county for the new county seat. John Reynolds resigned and Green Newton was appointed to take his place. Senator David Pryor is a direct descendant of both Green Newton and John R. Hampton.

Robert Johnson Black served untiringly in the establishment of the City of El Dorado. How the name was chosen is not given in the records, but he and John R. Hampton must have chosen it. He served as County Surveyor from 1844 to 1859. He did not run for re-election in 1858. He never remarried and devoted his life to his work in establishing the community and a civilization out of the wilderness. He died Nov. 10, 1859. His son, Oliver Hazard Perry Black, moved to Calhoun County when that county was established and had the first store there in Hampton. He served on the council and in 1861 when the War came, he sold his store and raised the Calhoun County Invincibles and financed the company. He married and moved to Texas after the war.

Araminta Matilda Black married William Dobbs, Feb. 20, 1845 (Deed Book E, page 30, records of Union County, Arkansas). They had no children and he died about 1852. She later married Dr. Edmond Russell Thompson, a widower with five children. He was from Tennessee and was one of the pioneer doctors in Union County. He had graduated in medicine from Jefferson College, later Pennsylvania University, in Philadelphia, and had married Catherine Mildred Tate. Their children were: William, Catherine, Nimrod, Oscar and Annehenri. Dr. Thompson and his second wife, Araminta Matilda Black Dobbs had three children: Oliver Hazard Thompson who graduated in medicine at Vanderbilt University; Robert Edmond Thompson who graduated in medicine at Arkansas Medical School; and Mary Holmes Thompson who married Richard Tice Nabors and is the only one who remained in Union County. Mary Holmes Thompson and Richard Tice Nabors had three children: Frances Lula who married Dr. Robert Mills Stephenson; Annie Tice Nabors who married James Victor Spencer, an attorney of El Dorado; and Hughie Holmes Nabors who died at two years.

Annie Tice Nabors and James Victor Spencer had three children: Annie Laurie Spencer; Mary Elizabeth Spencer who married Earl Arnold Riley, Jr. and have one child, Adenia Anne Riley who is married to Jonathan Brown Robbins and lives in El Dorado; and James Victor Spencer, Jr., an attorney of El Dorado who served in World War II in the Navy and married Mary Margaret Strawn of Morgantown, West Virginia. They have four children: James Victor Spencer, III, also an attorney in El Dorado, who married Carol Diane Chowning of Magnolia and they have two children, Mary Carol and Christopher James who are the eighth generation to live in Union County; Frederick Strawn Spencer, an attorney and married to Coralee Eke; and twin daughters, Mary and Margaret Spencer.

They only descendants of Robert Johnson Black in the county are the children, grandchildren and great grandchildren of Annie Tice Nabors Spencer and James Victor Spencer. Mrs. Spencer, with her daughters, was a charter member of the Union County Chapter, Arkansas Pioneers. The family has been identified with the affairs of Union County and Arkansas since about 1839. Her father, an attorney who graduated from Washington and Lee, was a descendant of an Arkansas pioneer family, William Crowson and his wife, Catherine Harrison, who settled in Saline County about 1843.

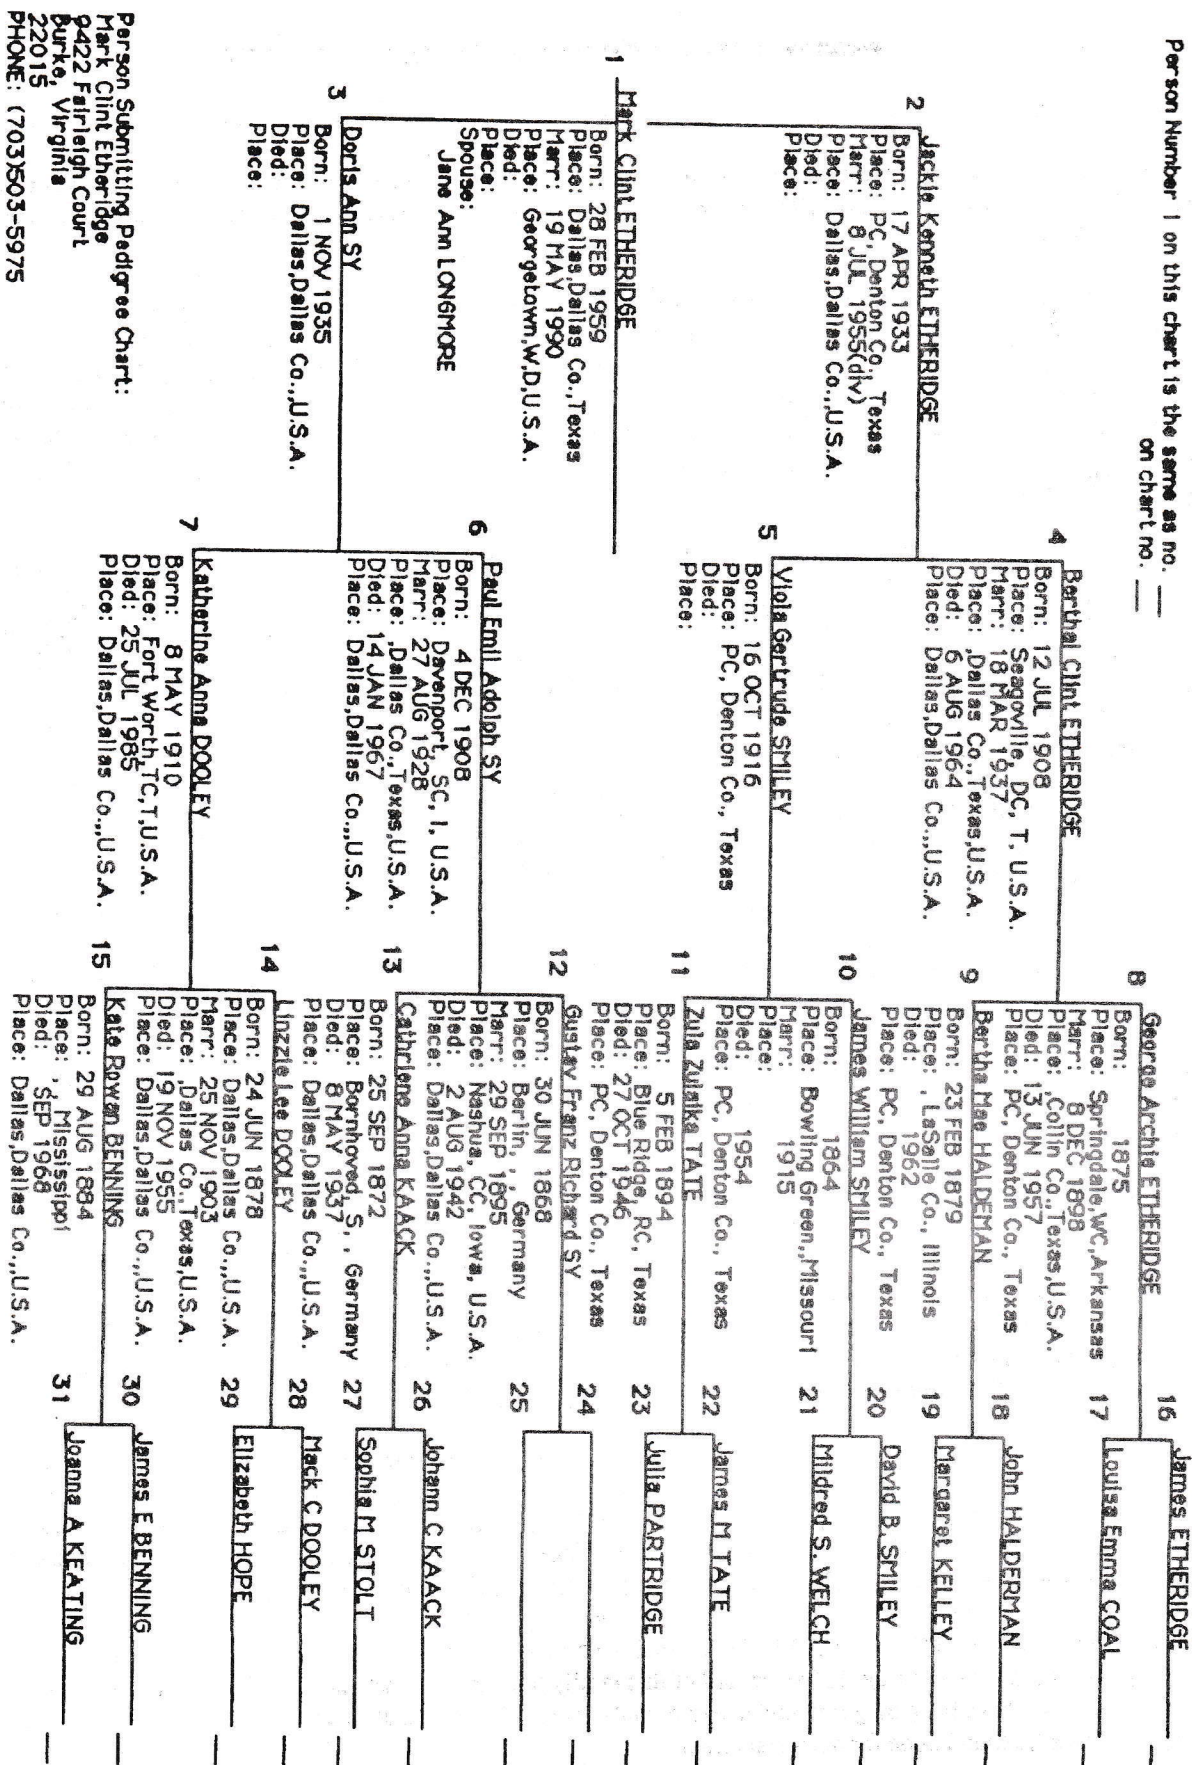

This family of Union County, the Blacks and their descendants, have been active in the political, social, religious and cultural affairs for more than 135 years. All of this family have been trained to serve in any way for the good of the community. They have been taught to find a way or make one as Robert Johnson Black did when he made a road into Arkansas when he found none for his wagon train.
